Reflection

It will take many years for the tree to grow to its full height. Likewise, the Church is constantly growing towards fuller maturity. The Church is nourished in its growth by the Eucharist and the Word of God. The Church is like a growing tree, already bearing fruit and giving comfort, but always open to further growth

Evangelisation: It's Not Just For Protestants

'How to Share Your Faith with Anyone: A Practical Manual for Catholic Evangelisation' by Terry Barber.

God has created me to do Him some definite service; He has committed some work to me which He has not committed to another. I have my mission – Blessed John Henry Cardinal Newman.

'Evangelism,' it is the main duty of Catholic men and women to "bear witness to Christ" in our lives and in our works - in our home, on the job, and in our social group or professional circle. As lay Catholics – even when we evangelise as individuals – we do so through, with and in the Church. The growth of the Church is the "consolation of the Holy Spirit". The Holy Spirit is the "soul of the Church" and the main source of all Catholic ministry .

Simply put, "Jesus and me" Christianity is absolutely alien to Holy Scripture and Sacred Tradition.

... you are a chosen race, a royal priesthood, a holy nation, God's own people, in order that you may proclaim the mighty acts of him who called you out of darkness into his marvelous light (1 Peter 2:9).

Social Justice

Protecting the Vulnerable

Our Catholic Social Justice teaching must surely ensure that we protect the most vulnerable in our society.

Therefore it is valuable for us to consider a recent article in Eureka Street by Annmarie Hosie, an experienced palliative care nurse. She said that, "As a palliative care nurse, I have been privileged to be with many people at the time of their death. People of different ages, nationalities, professions and family histories, in homes, hospitals, and aged care facilities. Dying is hard work, perhaps the hardest we will do, although living through the death of a person we love might be the toughest task of all.

And yet, on the faces of people close to death and those around them, I have seen not just fear, sorrow and pain, but smiles, winks, joy and flashes of pure love, too". She goes on to tell the story of a man in his fifties with advanced cancer who was dying at home surrounded by his wife and family. Annmarie said that his breathing was irregular, with his eyes closed. He was no longer speaking, but somehow his face and body communicated deep peace. She spoke to his wife and children, saying how he looked so peaceful. He died at home early in the next day. Later his wife told Annmarie just how they were sustained by these few words during the hard days after his death.

Annmarie said that this was typical of the many times when palliative care had made so much difference to the grieving family of people dying.

By way of contrast, she said that giving lethal doses of medication to the dying can cause side-effects such as dizziness, nausea, vomiting, hallucinations, and delirium. This is not the peaceful death that some would have us believe is effected by such measures.
