Fear: The Main Reason Why Catholics don't Evangelisation

Barber suspects that the main reason why Catholics don't evangelise is fear. This includes fear of:

- 1) Exclusivity – Jesus claimed to be God. We live in a pluralistic and secular society in which Jesus' exclusive claim, "I am the way and truth and the life. No one comes to the Father except through me" (John 14:6) is considered intolerant.
- 2) Ridicule and loss of respect (even from loved ones).
- 3) Humiliation – that they are unable to adequately explain and defend the Scriptures or doctrines of the Church. For some, this is only the fear of embarrassment and strained relations; for others, it is the fear that their less-than-perfect efforts at evangelisation will turn people off together.
- 4) Being pushy – Some Catholics might apathetically say, "I have my religion, that's good enough for me. I don't need to push it on anyone else".

We need to remember that what we are sharing really is Good News and the world needs to hear it.

Many lost and broken people long to hear the Gospel and don't even know it. And many non-Catholic Christians are amazed to learn that Catholicism is much more Biblical than their Evangelical Protestant or Fundamentalist denomination.

Most evangelisation opportunities are only a matter of "planting seeds". Next week, we will start to explore how to overcome anxieties about evangelising and move beyond fear or apathy, so that we can plant seeds in a hurting world that acts as if God does not exist.

Evangelisation Challenge

This month we ask parishioners to: Say "God bless you" when you leave someone.

Social Justice

In a recent article in Eureka Street Father Andrew Hamilton discusses the challenges facing refugee advocates in our society in which we have become even more isolationist and inward-looking as a result of the Covid-19 pandemic. He says, "As we mark World Refugee Day this year Clough's lines speak to our world, too".

He says that our preoccupation with our own lives during the pandemic can cause us to forget any people outside our own group or country. Our politicians often encourage xenophobia and punish the already excluded.

Refugee advocates must be in the business of lighting candles rather than cursing the darkness or pretending that the darkness is an acceptable place to live.

Instead of an abstract characterisation of refugees as innocent victims or competitors for our jobs we would do well to remember that each refugee is a person with his or her own hopes and sorrows, inalienable dignity, and their own right to help shape our world.

They are not strangers, but brothers and sisters who should first be welcomed, wept over and laughed with, and only then be counted and classified.

If you wish to come to our meetings please email Chris Firmstone on chrisfirmstone@gmail.com.
