Prayer to St Michael

St Michael the Archangel, defend us in battle; be our safeguard against the wickedness and snares of the devil. May God rebuke him we humbly pray; and you, O Prince of the Heavenly Hosts, by the power of God, cast into hell Satan and all the evil spirits who prowl about the world seeking the ruin of souls. Amen

ADVENT 1:23

Welcoming our guests

As we continue with the Advent 1:23 initiative this week, please keep praying for the people on your list, and keep offering invitations to Christmas Mass for those people you haven't seen around in a while.

Like every year here in Terrigal, we will be expecting lots of guests this Christmas, and it is important that we prepare to receive them so that they feel welcome as they arrive.

We are called to be the welcoming face of Jesus to others and to show them the love of Christ. Experiencing this welcoming side of our community may be the way that the Holy Spirit inspires our guests and any newcomers into a greater relationship with Jesus.

At Christmas Masses, remember to warmly welcome people as they arrive, in the true spirit of Christmas.

For those who can volunteer as part of a Parish "Welcome Team", specifically as greeters at the front doors or car park wardens/ushers at the Christmas Masses, or if you can give a little time and effort in the lead up to Christmas to help tidy up the Church and the grounds, please contact the Parish Office or sign up on the tables out the front of the church this weekend and we'll contact you.

Book Club

God willing our next bookclub meeting will be on Friday 17th December @ 1600 in the parish office rooms. We will be discussing Sally Reid's book "Night's Bright Darkness."

It is a conversion story; one of a long tradition. "Those close to a convert - she writes in the preface - have to undergo a conversion of sorts themselves." The same could be said for the reader. Many of us who are 'cradle catholics' may or may not have thought deeply about why we are catholic but stories by converts about 'coming home' or 'crossing the Tiber' remind us of our (dare I use the word) privilege. We are nourished by the sacraments.

Many converts came into the church at great cost to their reputations but were nevertheless compelled to make the journey because nothing else seemed reasonable. The lives of John Henry Newman and Gerard Manley Hopkins were not made easier by the walk to Rome. Chesterton and Scott Hahn-both married at the time of their conversion -made the journey without their spouses. Bitter-sweet for sure. (Luke 18:29)

Some conversion stories are from within the church. Sr Miriam James Heidland rediscovered the truth beauty and love within the church from a position of brokenness and darkness. Her 'coming home' story reminds us that no matter how much baggage we push onto Jesus, his love resonates with the core of our being. In the words of a band who has been absent from the music scene for 40 years, she could say "I Still Have Faith in You".

Sally Reid, a feminist anti-catholic poet, converted from atheism while researching a book on female sexuality. The Hound of Heaven finally caught up with her. Her journey to the faith led to the Vatican itself. As Marcus Grodi writes, "we see the fingerprints of the Holy Spirit on a heart once impenetrable hard and shut off". It is a conversion story that is brutally honest but infused with the poet's sensitivity to the 'dearest freshness deep down things'.

"I Still Have Faith in You. It Stands Above the Crazy Things We Do. It all Comes Down to Love." How true is that? Email Garry for more information at gazbo2@ozemail.com.au

Pastoral Discernment Central Coast Project Update

The consultation phase of the Pastoral Discernment Central Coast project is now underway.

Each Central Coast Parish and school community have nominated their consultation facilitator, who will work alongside their Community Leader (Parish Priest, Principal, CatholicCare etc.) to lead the consultation within their community. Patti Beattie, project facilitator, recently met with the nominated facilitators to outline the consultation methodology which will support each community to discern the local needs of the Central Coast region within their community, and resources to support this phase of the project. Our consultation facilitator is Chris Hartcher.

If I had 10 minutes to talk to the Pope

There is a worldwide program of discernment (consultation) in preparation for the International Synod of Bishops. Its theme is: For a Synodal church – the Church where all journey together.

Have you ever wondered what you would say to the Pope if you went to Rome and suddenly found yourself standing before him? If he asked you what your thoughts are on the future of the Catholic Church, what would you say? This is not idle speculation. The Pope wants to know the views of the people of God. As Archbishop of Buenos Aires he always caught the bus to work. He sat down and talked to ordinary people. He listened to their views. As a young man he worked in bars hearing the views of drinkers. He lives simply and calls upon his cardinals and bishops to do the same – as he puts it, to have pastors "with the smell of the sheep".

He believes that the laity – over 99% of the Church – have a role to play in the development of the Church. He is only too aware of the failings of the bishops. This week he accepted the resignation of the Archbishop of Paris, the effective head of the Catholic Church in France, following a report which showed no less than 300,000 cases of sexual abuse by clergy of children in France over a 50 year period. It was at his insistence that the report was prepared. The International Synod of Bishops which he has called to gather in Rome in October 2023 is to do for the worldwide church what the Plenary Council is hopefully doing for the Australian church – planning for the future in a secularized and increasingly hostile world. But the Pope does not want just to hear the views of Bishops. In many cases, if not most cases, cardinals and bishops are distant from their flock. They are protected by bureaucracies and layers of officialdom.

Hence the Pope's call for a worldwide program of what is called discernment, which first involves consultation. Initially he wanted each country to send their views to Rome by April 2022. He has now extended this to August 2022. Each diocese is required to engage in local consultation and start planning its own submission by May/June 2022. For consultation to be meaningful requires the participation of all those involved. Indeed that is the second theme of the international Synod – "participation". As advised previously, the Pope not only wants to hear from practicing Catholics but from those who are baptised but no longer practice. In Australia almost 90% of Catholics no longer practice the faith in the sense of attending Sunday Mass or receiving the sacraments.

"If I had 10 minutes to talk with the pope this is what I would say....." We would welcome your response. Please send it to starsea@bigpond.com.au to be part of our parish's consultation process. Chris Hartcher
