EVERYDAY STEWARDSHIP

*Recognise God
in Your Ordinary Moments*

Humility and Stewardship

We all know someone in the family who seems to have it all—Aunt Cindy off on another overseas adventure, Cousin Richard with his lake house, or your sister and brother-in-law upgrading their car every year.

Often, these relatives generously share their blessings. Cindy brings back exotic gifts, and Richard invites you out on his boat. But sometimes, there's an unspoken expectation—not for money, but for attention, admiration, or gratitude. Cindy hopes you'll ask about her Istanbul treasure so she can recount her travels. Richard wants you to notice his new boat and hear about his successful year.

This desire for appreciation is natural. There's nothing wrong with wanting to be generous or hoping others value what we offer. But what truly matters is the spirit behind the giving.

Are we seeking recognition, or are we simply grateful to be part of the gathering? Do we approach the table expecting the seat of honour, or do we humbly take the lowest place, thankful just to be invited?

True stewardship is rooted in humility. It's not about what we give, but how—and why—we give it.

— Tracy Earl Welliver, MTS ©LPI

BRINGING HOME THE GOSPEL

I took this reading to heart when I was young, and humbled myself whenever possible. My way of doing this was by putting myself down. It took my spiritual director years to straighten me out. I am still trying to learn that true humility is being honest about our gifts: not exaggerating them, not dismissing them and certainly not comparing them to others'.

It does God a disservice if we constantly belittle our gifts. I did that all the time. Someone would compliment me on my work, and I would respond by saying how much better Joan was at hers. It took me years to learn to respond with a simple, "Thank you."

Teaching children this kind of humility is an ongoing job. We often work so hard to help them grow in self-esteem that we forget to teach them how to internalise their real value and gifts. As a grandmother, I confess, this is one of my bad habits. My three-year-old grandchild can sneeze, and I'll start to applaud.

I remember reading somewhere that when a child gets to a certain age it's important to help her begin to critique her own work. Rather than gushing "that's great" for every dinosaur or flower she draws, a wise parent asks his or her child what the child thinks of her own drawing. Just make sure that the child doesn't equate herself with her work. Let her know that she is loved for who she is, not just what she can do.

FAMILY RESPONSE:

Ask family members to name two talents they have, and one talent they would like to have.

PERSONAL RESPONSE:

What are your gifts and talents? How do you use them to help yourself, your family and others?

WEEKLY SOCIAL JUSTICE CHALLENGES

The powerful Gospel this Sunday has Jesus teaching us to be humble and not seek the best seat in the house. He also wants us to be hospitable to the most marginalized people in our communities. He tells his followers to invite the “poor, the crippled, the lame, the blind” to our banquets—in other words, those who can’t pay us back. Your challenge this week is to extend an invitation to someone less fortunate than you—to a family barbecue, breakfast, a movie, or just coffee. Go out of your comfort zone and share your own blessings with someone who cannot pay you back.

PASTORAL CARE FOR THE HOMEBOUND

Our clergy and pastoral care ministers bring the sacraments of Eucharist, reconciliation, and anointing of the sick to parishioners who are unable to participate because of illness or aging. For more information and to arrange receiving the sacraments, contact Parish Office.

CARE FOR CREATION TIPS

“When you give a luncheon or a dinner, do not invite your friends or your brothers or your relatives or rich neighbours ... But when you give a banquet, invite the poor, the crippled, the lame, and the blind.” —Luke 14:12-13

Jesus often used the image of a banquet or a celebration to help us understand how God offers us a life of abundance. Sadly, too often wealthy nations have profited at the expense of poorer and developing nations, often plundering their natural resources in the process. Such exploitation has supplied a super-abundance for a small minority of people while the majority of people on the earth struggle to meet their basic needs. This week, make an effort to go out of your way to share your material abundance with someone who has less.

Afternoon Tea with Friends of St Augustine

Last Sunday we gathered as a group of “Friends of Augustine” learning about St Augustine’s life as Fr Paul explained parts of St Augustine’s book called, ‘Confessions’.

We watched a video interviewing the first Augustinian Pope, Pope Leo XIV and discussed what we found insightful. Thank you Fr Paul for teaching us about the struggles St Augustine faced and overcame as we enjoyed some afternoon tea.

Thank you for all those who helped make the event happen and attended. We pray that we as an Augustinian parish, may continue to spread the love of God as St Augustine so faithfully did.

Social Justice Sunday

Social Justice Sunday is on August 31, 2025. The celebration of Social Justice Sunday is a long tradition in the Catholic Church in Australia.

For almost every year since 1940, our bishops have joined together to issue a major social justice statement at this time. The 2025-2026 Social Justice Statement focusses on serving homeless people as over 273,000 people sought help from homelessness services last year in Australia. Let us follow Jesus' example of seeing, listening to, and caring for those on the margins of society.

23 August 2025

Dear Sisters and Brothers in Christ,

In recent days, I have received a number of letters expressing concern about changes recently announced about the future of Catholic education at the two Parish schools of the North Harbour Parish: St Cecilia's Balgowlah and St Kieran's Manly Vale.

I am grateful that people have brought their concerns to me. It is important that people share with me the questions they have. This enables us to continue to respond in as helpful a way as possible so that we can journey into the future together.

It is inevitable that when decisions such as those of last week are made public there will be a range of emotions. Some letters that have come to me express anger, disappointment, confusion, others, however, express gratitude and hope. There has also been concern about the nature and level of engagement and consultation leading up to the decisions that have been taken. Such reactions are inevitable, and I do understand them. No matter the extent of engagement and consultation, when decisions are made, they can be received with a level of surprise and even shock.

Notwithstanding, I need to take decisions not only in respect to families who have students currently enrolled in our schools, but also in respect to the many future generations of families who follow. The difficult decisions made now open opportunity for the future. Indeed, the transitions taking place are part of a broader diocesan effort to strengthen Catholic education, both in the Parish of North Harbour and across our Diocese of Broken Bay. These changes are not about school closures. St Cecilia's school is not being closed. On the contrary, St Cecilia's will continue as an important educational centre, albeit with a re-configuration of class offerings. The changes aim to expand opportunities for our children to flourish within vibrant, faith-filled learning communities that are grounded in our Catholic mission.

For some time, it has been recognised that Catholic education across our Diocese, including on the Northern Beaches, needed to change to meet better the current and emerging needs of the community. Until now, Catholic education in Australia has been offered in the same way that it has for over 100 years, each and every Parish with its own K-6 primary school, but with limited high school pathways. This paradigm cannot address the requirements of authentic professional education, and it cannot meet the needs parents have highlighted through our engagement with them over the last several years. Further, the paradigm cannot meet more complex educational needs and the challenges we face under the Government's funding model for Catholic education.

MOST REVEREND ANTHONY RANDAZZO BISHOP OF BROKEN BAY

PO Box 4369 Thornleigh NSW 2120 Australia P +61 2 8379 1614. E bishop@bbcatholic.org.au

www.bbcatholic.org.au

Change, therefore, is required. The circumstances of our time and the projection of needs into the future, mean that we must make decisions that look beyond existing needs and ensure the availability of Catholic education into the future. The decisions to amalgamate the Parish schools, to introduce a new educational offering at St Cecilia's, and to strengthen the pathway through to high school are in direct response to these needs, positioning Catholic education for the future. Though they do undeniably represent a certain disruption especially for our children, they are also aimed to provide them with enhanced learning environments and opportunities that are not possible in relatively small educational contexts which cannot be sustainable on a diverse range of levels.

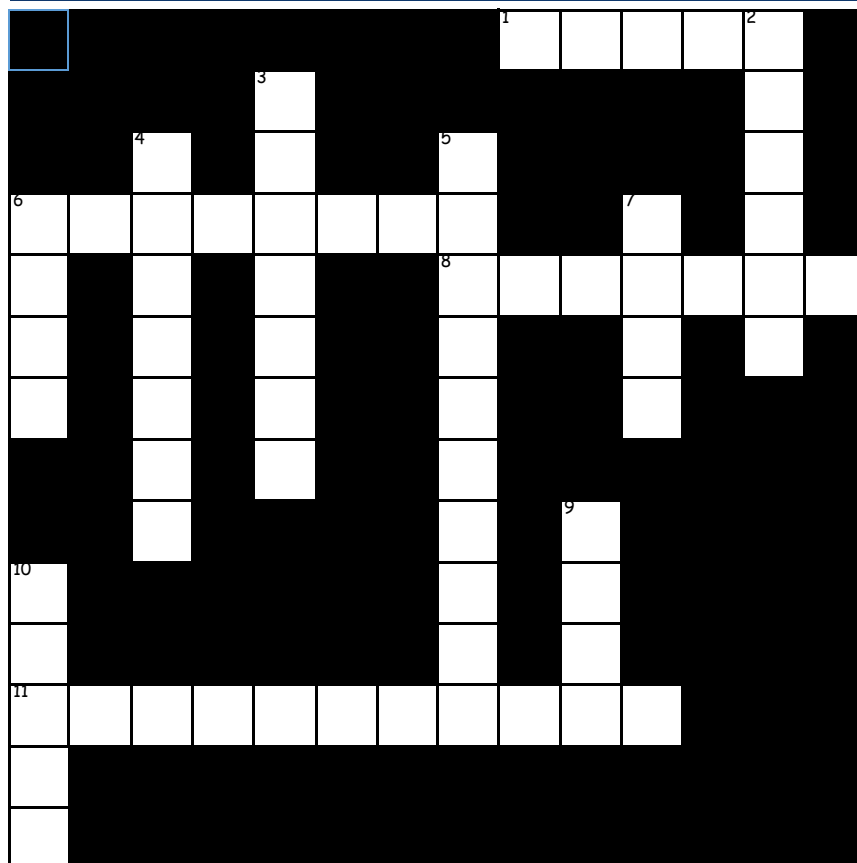

The past was built on the sacrifice of many. So, too, the future is being forged on the unmistakable sacrifice that our current changes entail. We have all benefited from the courage and vision of those women and men who laid such solid foundations for Catholic education in the Parish. Now is the time when we must build on those foundations, establishing a stronger Catholic education presence for the future. As evidenced in the days following the announcements of the decisions, Catholic Schools Broken Bay will walk with each family to ensure the sacrifices and disruption arising from change are, to the extent possible, kept to a minimum. I do invite you to engage as fully as possible with all the information that CSBB has provided over these days.

My sisters and brothers, I appreciate the challenges that these decisions occasion, and the sacrifices that are being asked. I express my gratitude to you for your sacrifice, participation, and commitment so that others who come after may also benefit. In so doing, I ask now for your support and cooperation for the transition so we can move ahead with confidence, trusting that the Holy Spirit is guiding us as together we commence this new chapter.

Let us hold one another in prayer and remain united in our shared mission: to raise and accompany children who know the love of Christ, who are shaped by the values of the Gospel, and who grow into generous and compassionate people of faith.

With every blessing in Christ,

Most Rev Anthony Randazzo DD JCL
Bishop of Broken Bay

Sharing the Gospel

If God is happy with you, do not worry when others are unhappy with you. Be filled with God's spirit. Do the right thing even if no one else does. Be the only one who does not hit the boy down the street. Be the only one to share your toys with your cousin. Be the only one to pick up rubbish around your neighbourhood. Doing the right thing helps God recognize you at heaven's gate.

Prayer

Lord, thank you for being happy with me.

Mission

I will choose to do the right thing, even if no one else does.
