WHY DO WE DO THAT? Catholic Life Explained

Question:

Is it ever Ok to leave Mass before it ends?

Answer:

This is an interesting question because beneath the surface there seems to be an assumption that if it's okay, then why do we have to stay after we receive communion? The short answer is "no," but we definitely want to go a bit deeper as we consider why.

First, when we think about questions like this, we must consider this in adult terms. If there is something gravely important that we need to do, then we must attend to that. However, if it is a matter of convenience or preference, then we really have to stop and think again. First, while we always want to recognize the importance of sacramental communion in the Mass, we also need to understand how important the time of thanksgiving and prayer after communion is. This is summarized in the Prayer After Communion offered by the celebrant and then we are also commissioned to "Go forth" during the Dismissal of the Mass, reminding us that we have been entrusted with a gift — the Word of God and the Presence of Christ in the sacrament — and that we are to share that gift with others.

If we simply leave after we receive communion, we risk two things. First, there is the possibility that we will turn our reception of communion into a purely personal, individual experience that is separated from our common experience of worship — and communion in the fullest sense — and, second, we lose an opportunity for gratitude and serious reflection if we simply leave after communion. This time of thanksgiving, reflection, and, ultimately, missioning, are important and, in the end, an essential part of the celebration of the Mass.

BRINGING HOME THE GOSPEL

Jesus' anger is certainly evident in this story of his cleansing the temple, but this wasn't the first time we see Jesus displaying his feelings. At various times in the Gospels we see Jesus sad, happy, frustrated, afraid and, yes, even angry. He cried, laughed, was honest about his fear and his anger. Jesus was comfortable expressing his feelings, and he expressed them in appropriate ways.

Psychologists tell us that feelings are neither good nor bad, they just are. It is what we do with those feelings that really matters. We need tears and laughter to help us heal not only emotionally, but sometimes even physically. Fear helps to get the adrenaline going when we need to protect ourselves and move fast. Expressing our anger justly is also appropriate in the right settings.

A priest once told me that sometimes children should see their parents angry to help them understand the seriousness of a situation. He cautioned, however, to make sure the response was nonviolent and appropriate to the wrong-doing. Never respond unless you are certain you are in control of your feelings. If need be, take a long walk. Anger must never lead to physically or emotionally abusing a child or anyone else.

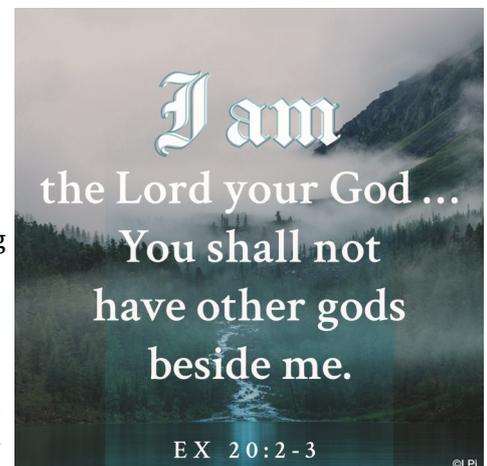

Some people need to get help in finding healthy outlets for their anger. The experts agree: Suppressing our feelings can be dangerous. Anger will find its own way out, too often in unhealthy ways. We may end up letting it out at the wrong person, or we may unintentionally hurt another or ourselves. Like everything else that is difficult in life, anger is best mastered when we realize we can't handle it alone, and we ask for God's help.

FAMILY RESPONSE:

Read the story of Jesus cleansing the temple, and then ask everyone to talk about what makes him or her angry. Discuss ways of handling anger.

PERSONAL RESPONSE:

Name the trigger points that cause you to get angry with your children or spouse. Since you cannot control another person's behavior, only your own, what can you do about the situation?

WEEKLY SOCIAL JUSTICE CHALLENGES

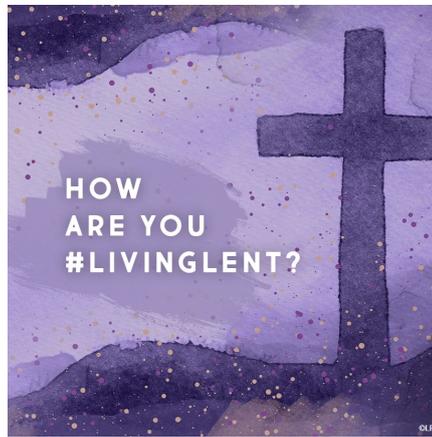

In the First Reading (Exodus 20:1-17) for this Sunday, we hear the story of God giving the Ten Commandments to the Israelites. Did you know that many, if not most, of the justice teachings in the Catechism of the Catholic Church are found in the section on the commandments, particularly Commandment Seven—You Shall Not Steal? This is because the Seventh Commandment reminds us of how important it is to be other-centered and to respect their rights and property. Jesus’ whole life was a witness to living for others. As disciples, we are called to follow Jesus’ example. Your challenge this week is to choose one thing you can do each day which is totally other-centered, something which has no direct benefits for you. Do it, not because it makes you feel good or makes you proud, but simply because it’s what God is calling you to do.

CARE FOR CREATION TIPS

“You shall not make for yourself an idol, whether in the form of anything that is in heaven above, or that is on the earth beneath.” –Exodus 20:4.

Pope Francis spoke about humanity’s new idols: money and profit. “It is no longer man who commands but money; money, cash commands... men and women are sacrificed to the idols of profit and consumption: it is the ‘culture of waste.’” (St. Peter’s Square, 2013). This week, confront the culture of waste in your life and home. Reduce single-use items (paper plates, plastic cups, etc) and don’t buy anything new that is not essential. Donate money and hardly-used items and clothes to local organizations supporting the homeless and those in need.

Thank You from Janette

Many thanks for the wonderful farewell Mass, morning tea and the very special gifts. Thanks to Fr Michael and Fr Paul for their kind words and to Adriana and her hospitality team.

Thanks also to the parish and school staff and to all in the community for their good wishes, emails, cards and messages of thanks.

I have had a very enjoyable time journeying with many of the families at the North Harbour Parish in my various areas of ministry. I have been very fortunate in getting to know so many families from the various schools in the parish. I have also appreciated reconnecting with many longstanding parishioners from my time teaching at St Kieran's school and involvement in the parish.

My God bless all in the North Harbour Community and particularly the parish team and the parish clergy in their dedicated service to all.

Sharing the Gospel

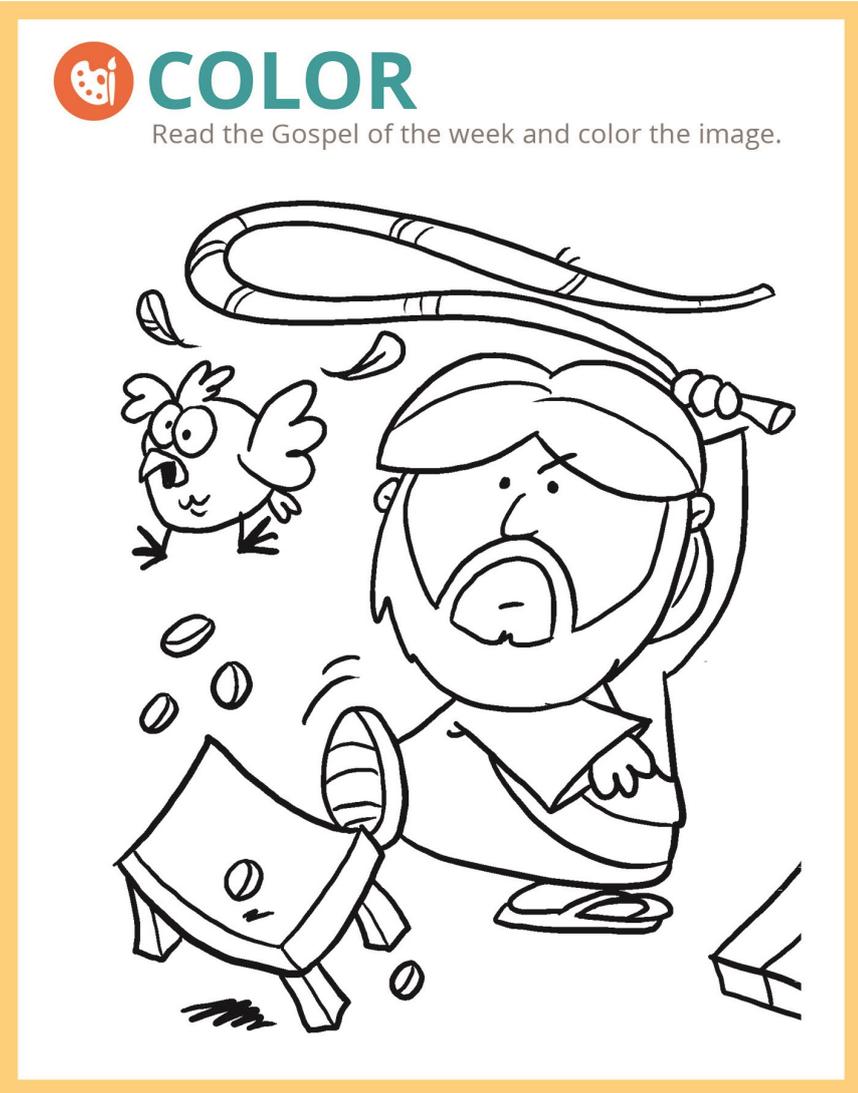

Imagine coming to your church to pray. All around your church, you see people selling animals. It smells like a barn. The animals are loud. The people are shouting. You cannot even pray with all the noise and activity going on around you. That is what Jesus found in today's Gospel. It broke his heart and made Jesus angry. God's house is not supposed to be turned into a barn or a store. It should be special place where people can meet with God and talk to him. Jesus cleaned out his Father's house. He turned it back into a place of prayer.

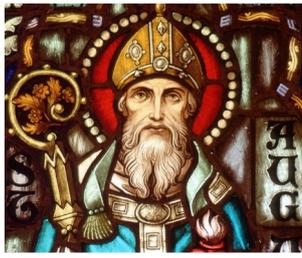

Prayer

God, my church is a place for prayer. Help me to remember that always.

Mission

Read John 2:13-25 with your family. Ask God to help you keep your church clean. Church should never be a store or a barn. It should be a special place to pray. ©LPI
