"IT WAS WRITTEN THAT THE CHRIST WOULD SUFFER AND ON THE THIRD DAY RISE FROM THE DEAD."

SCRIPTURE COMMENTARY

BY BRENDAN BYRNE SJ

One of the attractive features of St Luke's presentation of God's saving action is that people get a 'second chance'. An initial rejection of the message need not be final. This is made clear in the early chapters of Acts where, after Pentecost, the Apostles appeal to the Jewish leadership that had actually brought about the death of Jesus by handing him over to Pilate.

The language in which we hear this appeal in the First Reading, from Acts 3:13-15, 17-19, is uncompromising and, readers sensitive, as all should be, to Jewish-Christian relations, will perhaps flinch at the bluntness with which it recalls the story. Peter makes the point, though, that the leadership acted in 'ignorance,' not knowing what was really at stake. More significantly still, a correct reading of the Scriptures shows that their very act of rejection was already foreseen by God and destined to be woven into a wider pattern of salvation.

Few Jews then and even fewer in subsequent generations have seen things this way. We should not read the text as an appeal to them now. But we can perhaps draw comfort from it in regard to our own failures and sinfulness and all that we regret about our lives. So often it is only much later that we realise the full consequences of wrongdoing on our part. Nothing, however, is too great a challenge for God's power to draw such things into a wider pattern of salvation far outstripping our own understanding.

The Second Reading, 1 John 2:1-5, again confronts us with the somewhat roundabout logic of this letter from the Johannine community. Much of its concern revolves around the claim to 'know God'. Some people – those of a Gnostic disposition – were obviously claiming to have a saving knowledge of God without that knowledge being reflected in the conduct of their lives. The writer insists that keeping the commandments, above all that of love (John 14:15, 21; 15:10), is the only sure test of real intimacy with God. The last sentence is very attractive: 'When anyone does obey ... God's love has come to perfection in (that person).' The statement reflects a clear sense of the divine initiative: the love of God has reached out to that person and enveloped their whole being. It has 'come to perfection' in the sense of going on to activate their own capacity to love – in regard to both God and fellow members of the community.

The Gospel, Luke 24:35-48, takes us to the penultimate scene of Luke's account of Jesus' risen life (just prior to his departure from the earth at Bethany). It is Easter Sunday evening. The two disciples who have encountered the risen Lord on their journey to Emmaus have returned and shared their marvellous story. Now the disciples who have remained in Jerusalem are to meet the risen Lord themselves.

In the way typical of the resurrection appearances across all four Gospels, the risen Lord meets the disciples exactly where they are emotionally: fearful, agitated, slow to believe, thinking that what they are seeing is a ghost. Jesus takes considerable pains to overcome their disbelief by making clear the full physical reality of his presence. He urges them to see and touch him, and eats a piece of fish before their eyes (vv. 38-42). Luke dramatises here – perhaps in an overly realistic way – what Paul also insists upon, writing to the Corinthians (1 Cor 15:35-49): you cannot believe in the resurrection without believing that it involved – both for Jesus and for believers after him – full bodily existence.

But simply recognising the risen Lord is not enough. As the scene moves to a second stage (vv. 43-49), Jesus repeats for those present the scriptural catechesis concerning the Messiah given to the two disciples on the road (24:25-27). Full faith in the resurrection comes about when people grasp that all that has happened to him – his suffering, his death and now his resurrection – fulfils all that had been written about the Messiah (literally 'about me') in the Scriptures (v. 44).

All this involved a very considerable transformation of conventional expectation about the Messiah – especially, as stated in the final sentence, that the Messiah would suffer and that his central role would not be the restoration of the fortunes of Israel but the reconciliation of the entire world with God. The disciples have now been made 'witnesses' of all this. Soon, empowered with the Spirit, they will be sent out to spread this joyful message to the nations.

As we already learned in the First Reading, coming to see 'how it all fits together' – not only in respect to Jesus but also in our own lives – is so much part of arriving at that 'knowledge of salvation' (Luke 1:77) which the Scriptures, especially the Gospel of Luke, aim to convey.

Pope Francis' Prayer Intention

APRIL

For The Role Of Women

Let us pray that the dignity and worth of women be recognized in every culture, and for an end to the discrimination they face in various parts of the world.

FR. Francis Jordan

I don't hide my crosses from myself. I still have a lot of courage, aware that of myself I can only be tepid but the dear God, who gives me courage, will also help.

“IT WAS WRITTEN THAT THE CHRIST WOULD SUFFER AND ON THE THIRD DAY RISE FROM THE DEAD.”

ENTRANCE ANTIPHON

Cf PSALM 65:1-2

Cry out with joy to God, all the earth; O sing to the glory of his name.

O render him glorious praise, alleluia.

The Gloria in excelsis (Glory to God in the highest) is said.

FIRST READING

ACTS OF THE APOSTLES 3:13-15. 17-19

A reading from the Acts of the Apostles

You have killed the prince of life; God, however, raised him from the dead. Peter said to the people: 'You are Israelites, and it is the God of Abraham, Isaac and Jacob, the God of our ancestors, who has glorified his servant Jesus, the same Jesus you handed over and then disowned in the presence of Pilate, after Pilate had decided to release him. It was you who accused the Holy One, the Just One, you who demanded the reprieve of a murderer while you killed the prince of life. God, however, raised him from the dead, and to that fact we are the witnesses. 'Now I know, brothers, that neither you nor your leaders had any idea what you were really doing; this was the way God carried out what he had foretold, when he said through all his prophets that his Christ would suffer. Now you must repent and turn to God, so that your sins may be wiped out.'

RESPONSORIAL PSALM

Ps 4:2. 4. 7. 9. R. v.7

(R.) Lord, let your face shine on us.

1. When I call, answer me, O God of justice; from anguish you released me, have mercy and hear me!

(R.) Lord, let your face shine on us.

2. It is the Lord who grants favours to those whom he loves; the Lord hears me whenever I call him.

(R.) Lord, let your face shine on us.

3. 'What can bring us happiness?' many say. Lift up the light of your face on us, O Lord.

(R.) Lord, let your face shine on us.

4. I will lie down in peace and sleep comes at once, for you alone, Lord, make me dwell in safety.

(R.) Lord, let your face shine on us.

SECOND READING

1 JOHN 2:1-5

A reading from the first letter of St John

Jesus Christ is the sacrifice that takes away our sins and those of the whole world.

I am writing this, my children, to stop you sinning; but if anyone should sin, we have our advocate with the Father, Jesus Christ, who is just; he is the sacrifice that takes our sins away, and not only ours, but the whole world's.

We can be sure that we know God only by keeping his commandments.

Anyone who says, 'I know him', and does not keep his commandments, is a liar, refusing to admit the truth.

But when anyone does obey what he has said, God's love comes to perfection in him.

GOSPEL ACCLAMATION

LUKE 24:32

Alleluia, alleluia!

Lord Jesus, make your word plain to us: make our hearts burn with love when you speak.

Alleluia!

GOSPEL

LUKE 24:35-48

A reading from the holy Gospel according to Luke

It was written that the Christ would suffer and on the third day rise from the dead.

The disciples told their story of what had happened on the road and how they had recognised Jesus at the breaking of bread.

They were still talking about all this when Jesus himself stood among them and said to them, 'Peace be with you!' In a state of alarm and fright, they thought they were seeing a ghost. But he said, 'Why are you so agitated, and why are these doubts rising in your hearts? Look at my hands and feet; yes, it is I indeed. Touch me and see for yourselves; a ghost has no flesh and bones as you can see I have.' And as he said this he showed them his hands and feet. Their joy was so great that they could not believe it, and they stood dumbfounded; so he said to them, 'Have you anything here to eat?' And they offered him a piece of grilled fish, which he took and ate before their eyes.

Then he told them, 'This is what I meant when I said, while I was still with you, that everything written about me in the Law of Moses, in the Prophets and in the Psalms, has to be fulfilled.' He then opened their minds to understand the scriptures, and he said to them, 'So you see how it is written that the Christ would suffer and on the third day rise from the dead, and that, in his name, repentance for the forgiveness of sins would be preached to all the nations, beginning from Jerusalem. You are witnesses to this.'
