SCRIPTURE COMMENTARY BY BRENDAN BYRNE SJ

The Gospel for today, Luke 16:1-13, features one of the most obscure parables in the gospel tradition, that of the Dishonest or Rogue Manager.

The first problem is actually to determine where the parable proper ends and the series of comments – added, it would seem, to make it intelligible – takes over. More precisely, is 'the master', who – surprisingly – praises the manager in the end, the master in the story? Or should we understand the master to be Jesus himself, adding a comment of his own? The former seems more likely. Without this concluding comment from the master the parable somehow lacks 'bite'. Here is the surprise, the shock, that is so frequently a feature of the parables told by Jesus.

Then the issue is to decide wherein exactly the manager's 'dishonesty' lay. It is tempting to see it consisting in what he does with his master's creditors – getting them to write down reduced amounts of what they owe. But the master finds fault with the manager before he has recourse to this stratagem. His dishonesty has to do with the way he has conducted his master's affairs before his dismissal and is in fact the reason for it. What he does after receiving notice may be opportunistic but it need not necessarily be wrong.

What in fact is the steward doing? The parable seems to presuppose an economic practice of the time where a manager enjoying considerable autonomy lets out items of his master's property for a commission or interest which includes some proportion for himself. As far as the master is concerned there is nothing particularly dishonest in this; he gets his interest. If the manager gets a cut as well, so be it. In the story as told by Jesus, it would seem that what the manager does after receiving notice about his dismissal is to strip away the portion of the interest accruing to himself. He cancels his own cut because he reckons that it will be more advantageous when he is out of work – and too weak to dig and too ashamed to beg – to have the goodwill of people who may be able to help him, welcoming him into their homes. He 'buys' their goodwill in this way and the master wryly praises him for what he has done. By incurring some immediate loss to secure long-term interest, he has acted 'sensibly'. He has not clung to his wealth but used it to win goodwill that will serve him in the hour of need that is coming his way.

The parable presupposes the sense of a great reversal connected with the coming of the Kingdom as proclaimed by Jesus. In this reversal, as Mary proclaimed in her Magnificat (1:53) 'the hungry will be filled with good things and the rich sent empty away'. In view of it, Jesus could say in the Beatitudes, 'Blessed are you who are poor' (6:20) and 'Woe to you who are rich' (6:24). So, in the light of this reversal, the steward's behaviour provides something to praise and emulate. Rogue he may be (a 'child of this world') but in this one respect – seeing a crisis coming and taking vigorous action, even at some cost to himself – he showed himself 'more shrewd' than 'the children of light'. With so much more at stake (eternal life), the wealthy among the latter would be well advised to strip themselves of their wealth now in order to win friends among the poor. When the poor have their privileged places in the kingdom, these same poor will welcome these benefactors into 'eternal dwellings'. As generally for Luke, the only really useful thing to do with money is to give it away so that it will store up 'treasure in heaven' (12:33).

The First Reading, from Amos 8:4-7, offers one of the most powerful appeals for social justice in the Old Testament. As such, it most effectively sets up a background for the Gospel. Rich landowners observed the law against trade on the new moon but secretly longed for the feast to be over so that they could resume their defrauding of the poor. In any case, the law (Lev 19:9-10) enjoined them to leave the 'sweepings of the wheat' for the poor to harvest. The prophet powerfully attacks their hypocrisy. The Second Reading, from 1 Tim 2:1-8, is notable for two things. First, it features one of the most striking expressions in the New Testament of God's universal salvific will; no nation or people, no single individual is excluded. Second, it makes the point that believers have to live as part of a wider society. Hence prayer should be offered for rulers and others in authority – pagans though they be – so that the church may live out its way of life in the world in tranquility and peace.

Pope Leo XIV - Prayer Intention for September

For our relationship with all of creation. Let us pray that, inspired by Saint Francis, we might experience our interdependence with all creatures who are loved by God and worthy of love and respect.

MASS INTENTION ENVELOPES AVAILABLE IN THE FOYER

We offer Mass intentions for our departed loved ones, living family members, and on special occasions like wedding anniversaries because the Holy Mass is the highest form of prayer and worship in the Catholic Church. It unites us with the sacrifice of Christ on the Cross and brings countless graces.

For the deceased, offering a Mass intention is an act of love and mercy. We believe in the communion of saints and the power of prayer to aid souls in purgatory. When we request a Mass for a departed loved one, we entrust them to God's mercy and ask that they be purified and welcomed into eternal life. It is a spiritual gift that expresses our hope in the resurrection and our continued connection with those who have gone before us.

For the living, Mass intentions are a way to seek God's blessings, protection, and guidance. Whether it's for a birthday, wedding anniversary, or a time of illness or hardship, offering a Mass helps us place our lives in God's hands. On a wedding anniversary, for example, a Mass can be a beautiful way to thank God for the gift of marriage and ask for continued grace to remain faithful and loving.

Offering Masses for our families is a sign of spiritual care and solidarity. It brings our intentions before God through the perfect prayer of the Church and deepens our unity as a family. Whether in joy or sorrow, the Mass reminds us that God walks with us in every season of life.

In short, Mass intentions are a powerful and sacred tradition that strengthen our faith, honor our loved ones, and invite God's presence into every aspect of our lives.

Each Mass can be offered for an intention for yourself, loved ones both living or deceased, or a private intention. You will find the 'Please offer Holy Mass' envelopes on the welcome desk within the Church foyer or in the Parish office. Please include your offering and place in the collection bowls during weekend Masses.

SPECIAL PRAYERS THROUGH HIS INTERCESSION

YOU CANNOT BE SLAVES BOTH OF GOD AND OF MONEY.

ENTRANCE ANTIPHON

I am the salvation of the people, says the Lord. Should they cry to me in any distress, I will hear them, and I will be their Lord for ever.

FIRST READING

Amos 8:4-7

A reading from the prophet Amos

Listen to this, you who trample on the needy and try to suppress the poor people of the country, you who say, 'When will New Moon be over so that we can sell our corn, and sabbath, so that we can market our wheat? Then by lowering the bushel, raising the shekel, by swindling and tampering with the scales, we can buy up the poor for money, and the needy for a pair of sandals, and get a price even for the sweepings of the wheat.'

The Lord swears it by the pride of Jacob, 'Never will I forget a single thing you have done.'

RESPONSORIAL PSALM

Ps 112:1-2. 4-8. R. SEE VV.1. 7

(R.) Praise the Lord who lifts up the poor.

1. Praise, O servants of the Lord, praise the name of the Lord! May the name of the Lord be blessed both now and for evermore!

(R.) Praise the Lord who lifts up the poor

2. High above all nations is the Lord, above the heavens his glory. Who is like the Lord, our God, who has risen on high to his throne yet stoops from the heights to look down, to look down upon heaven and earth?

(R.) Praise the Lord who lifts up the poor

3. From the dust he lifts up the lowly, from the dunheap he raises the poor to set him in the company of princes, yes, with the princes of his people.

(R.) Praise the Lord who lifts up the poor

SECOND READING

1 TIMOTHY 2:1-8

A reading from the first letter of St Paul to Timothy

My advice is that, first of all, there should be prayers offered for everyone – petitions, intercessions and thanksgiving – and especially for kings and others in authority, so that we may be able to live religious and reverent lives in peace and quiet. To do this is right, and will please God our saviour: he wants everyone to be saved and reach full knowledge of the truth. For there is only one God, and there is only one mediator between God and mankind, himself a man, Christ Jesus, who sacrificed himself as a ransom for them all. He is the evidence of this, sent at the appointed time, and I have been named a herald and apostle of it and – I am telling the truth and no lie – a teacher of the faith and the truth to the pagans.

In every place, then, I want the men to lift their hands up reverently in prayer, with no anger or argument.

GOSPEL ACCLAMATION

2 CORINTHIANS 8:9

Alleluia, alleluia!

Jesus Christ was rich but he became poor, to make you rich out of his poverty.

Alleluia!

GOSPEL

LUKE 16:1-13

A reading from the holy Gospel according to Luke

Jesus said to his disciples: 'There was a rich man and he had a steward who was denounced to him for being wasteful with his property. He called for the man and said, "What is this I hear about you? Draw me up an account of your stewardship because you are not to be my steward any longer." Then the steward said to himself, "Now that my master is taking the stewardship from me, what am I to do? Dig? I am not strong enough. Go begging? I should be too ashamed. Ah, I know what I will do to make sure that when I am dismissed from office there will be some to welcome me into their homes."

'Then he called his master's debtors one by one. To the first he said, "How much do you owe my master?" "One hundred measures of oil," was the reply. The steward said, "Here, take your bond; sit down straight away and write fifty." To another he said, "And you, sir, how much do you owe?" "One hundred measures of wheat," was the reply. The steward said, "Here, take your bond and write eighty."

'The master praised the dishonest steward for his astuteness. For the children of this world are more astute in dealing with their own kind than are the children of light.

'And so I tell you this: use money, tainted as it is, to win you friends, and thus make sure that when it fails you, they will welcome you into the tents of eternity. The man who can be trusted in little things can be trusted in great; the man who is dishonest in little things will be dishonest in great. If then you cannot be trusted with money, that tainted thing, who will trust you with genuine riches? And if you cannot be trusted with what is not yours, who will give you what is your very own?

'No servant can be the slave of two masters: he will either hate the first and love the second, or treat the first with respect and the second with scorn. You cannot be the slave both of God and of money.'

COMMUNION ANTIPHON
